Don't Experiment.

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Norway Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Norway. Follow the advice of a Norway citizen and be cured yourself.

Mrs. Solon Moore, Tucker St., Norway, Me., says: "About five years ago I was troubled with kidney complaint, accompanied by attacks of rheumatism. My whole body seemed to be affected and during these spells the secretions from my kidneys were very unnatural. I used many remedies, but I received no benefit. I at last procured Doan's Kidney Pills from Stone's drug store and they proved to be an excellent remedy. I am pleased to give this preparation my highest endorsement." 36 37.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Won't Drown You.

If Dumped in Water Don't Be Scared at

Clothes won't drown you, says L. de B. Handley, and, moreover, he prescribes photographs that they have buoyancy, and in case of a woman, may be as efficient a life preserver as one of cork. Mr. Handley advises the swimmer who falls overboard, fully dressed, to first turn on the back and float, and while in that position to remove the shoes and coat and then keep on floating.

He points out that a swimmer can float indefinitely, and may easily tire of swimming, and tiring, may be seized with panic, which will lead to drowning. In "floating," says Mr. Handley, "one can shout all one likes to attract attention, and still retain one's strength. And will not the chances of rescue be decidedly better if one lies comfortably, awaiting developments, or propelling one's self gently by an easy back stroke, than after using up one's energies in treading water or in making violent efforts to reach land by swimming?"

"Of course this advice is hard to follow, because it is contrary to every instinct of self preservation. To quietly await developments after an unexpected and unwelcome immersion. Still, training will accomplish it. As, however, it is impossible to train the body in this case, the mind must be 'relied' upon to offer the right suggestion at the psychological moment, one should prepare by mentally rehearsing what is to be done in case of a spill.

Just picture to yourself the contingency of being thrown unexpectedly into the water and school yourself to turn immediately on your back in a floating position, at least until you have had an opportunity to recover from the shock and to size up the situation. Then you can decide comfortably on the course to follow.

"Don't let panic seize you. Let the fact be always uppermost in your mind that clothes have no tendency to drag you under water, that they are a help rather than a hindrance if you only know how to take advantage of the assistance they offer. Never forget that clothes or no clothes, you are afloat, naturally, so that you can stay afloat, water, naturally, indefinitely if you will only keep your wits about you, and the cases are rare indeed in which assistance does not come within a comparatively short space of time." (Recreation.)

Autumn Twilight.

The air is chill, the yellow leaves are falling. The sky is grey with fears that will not fall. Among the trees a few sad songsters calling. Hear only sighs in answer to their call. And yet comes Eve, with silent, shadowy spaces. And yet comes Eve, with sombre, purple west. And yet comes the scare of battle from our faces. And kisses us, and softly whispers, "Rest!" Sing me a song of twilight, O sad singer. Of live, winged shadows, deepening into Night. Of twilight touching us with cool, still finger. And drawing Day's dull curtain from our sight.

He's Death to Bears.

J. B. Thompson, who has killed more bears than any other man in Oxford county, has a monstrous skin bear a few days ago with two cubs. Thompson attempted to capture the little fellows, but the mother put up strenuous objection and chased Thompson at a 60-mile-an-hour gait down the mountain.

"Never mind," said Thompson. "I will pay Mrs. Bear back by killing her nose, next fall when I can get $5 for her nose, $10 or more for her skin, some tender bear steak and some fat for doughnuts. Ever fry doughnuts in bear fat? Well, now I tell you that's a dish for a king.

"How do I trap 'em? Oh, that's easy to tell. There are several ways and for bait we can use either meat or fish. You know the bear is very fond of mutton and up in Oxford county are very destructive to sheep. When they kill one they eat what they want and then return to the body again the next night. When we find a dead sheep partly eaten we set a trap right side of the body and cover it with leaves and fine brush. Almost invariably the bear will walk right into that trap the next night, so you see that his sense of smelling iron is not so very keen after all.

"Another way of catching bears is to build what hundreds call a cubby. It is a little house made of logs and the trap is set at the mouth. On the inside of the cubby we hang up a fish or a piece of meat. The bear smells the bait and after finding the house he hangs around for some time before making up his mind to go in after it. Finally his hunger gets the best of him and he makes a break for the meat, but runs right into the trap.

"This is only the beginning of the racket. We never fasten a trap, for if we did we should never catch a bear. He will tear his foot off every time. We simply hitch what is called a clog to the trap." [Bangor News.]

The Summer Girl.

Summer is the test time of the manners and principles of a girl who for the rest of the year has little to tempt her from accepted standards.

Most girls get away from home in summer, if but for a few weeks. If they do not spend hot weather in a round of visits they go to a summer resort or take a trip. They meet strangers and are making impressions that may be, undesirable, good or bad, as an exchange.

It takes an exceptionally fine nature to keep natural when among strangers. Some girls become shy and appear almost rude; far more girls show off and forget their principles.

The well-bred girl knowing that travel is the great educator, is never off with the people she meets from day to day. While there is no undue rushing into familiarity, pleasant acquaintances can be made that later may ripen into friendship.

Far greater is the danger of girls getting quickly intimate with strangers. Besides being in bad taste this may become embarrassing later when one has sized up the situation and has learned her mistake in judgment.

Nothing is so disgusting to the people worth knowing as the girl who plays for notice. She might as well label herself "attention seeker," for no one is fooled as to her actions.

A girl should no more permit herself to show off to strangers than to those who can spot each skeleton in her closet. Friends will make allowance for the vanity of the youth, think of the worth behind the folly; strangers think it ill-bred and common.

Sometimes the quiet mouse of a girl will assume "sporting" airs when off on her summer trip; after a while the better she is at home the wilder the fling in the new environment. Just because she is adopting a pose she goes to lengths that the really loud girl would not, and she is misjudged.

There is much excuse for the quiet girl. Unaccustomed attention goes to her head. Circumstances may have been against her at home; she may be overawed by parents, pushed into the background by older sisters, or socially not in a position to gratify her natural love of a good time.

No one will blame her for coming out of her shell; it is destroying all semblance of that shell that causes the talk. Strangers are not expected to know that the girl who flaunts herself on the beach, haunts corners, deems chaperones, makes herself conspicuous in the ball room, is merely socially inexperienced, instead of socially defiant.

When it is possible to have a glorious summer within conventional lines it is a pity that girls so often overlook those lines in their eagerness to enjoy each minute of vacation time with pleasures.

It never hurts to err on the side of being over-particular in one's manner and actions. Particularly is this so when a girl is the target for the caustic comments of those who have no other means of judging her save by appearances only.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours.

A brick dust sediment, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Passing of the Maine Chautauqua Grounds at Fryeburg.

It is, in truth, a strange turning of the wheel of fate that brings to Fryeburg long and widely renowned as the Maine Chautauqua grounds, so sad a destiny as complete disintegration on the auction block, says the Boston Globe.

Cutting down the abrupt descent from the plateau to grove level, one might almost imagine himself back in good old Chautauqua days on beholding the crowd about the hotel piazza, or wandering over the grounds—all except the carriages, and the horses contentedly munching grass under the trees, a sight unfamiliar in those (11) golden days.

An auction is always attractive, but one so unusual, with the added charm of one last picnic on the river bank, drew people by whole families from all the township and beyond. Cots, bedding, lamps, dishes, old pumps, piano, organ—a miscellaneous collection—while bids ran the scale from 5 cents upward.

Normal hall, center and soul of Chautauqua classes and the summer school, has been presented by the owners to Fryeburg academy for a gymnasium and will be removed to the village. The auditorium suffers the inconceivable transformation into a barn.

These rafters, that soaring roof, that have echoed the voices of such speakers as Edward Everett Hale, Mary A. Livermore, Alice Freeman Palmer, Dr. Lyman Abbott, a long line of brilliant memories, whose very timbers have thrilled to the music of Wolf Fries and the scores of artists, vocal and instrumental, who here gave their best, must surely retain some halcyon association, incommunicable, that even cattle may feel.

A varied history here, these quiet acres along the Saco's east bank, half maple grove, half pine woodlands, dedicated for two generations to religion, science and philosophy and art.

In the 70's a Methodist campmeeting flourished in Martha's Grove, then the estate of Mrs. Eben Nutter, of Portland; days when "Campmeeting" John Allen and other famous exhorters held eager congregations by the spell of their eloquence in those open air sessions beneath the flickering sun and shadow of the maples.

In 1886 the Maine Chautauqua union, which had met once or twice, became the dominant force, replacing the unceder benches by an auditorium on the river bank. About this time the Fryeburg horse railroad appeared, connecting the grounds with the Maine Central station, 2 1/2 miles distant.

Not long after the society purchased the grounds, and cottages supplanted the tents of previous years.

Under the able leadership of Rev. Dr. George D. Lindsay of Waterville and Portland the Northern N. E. S. S. assembly and Maine Chautauqua grew to be an influential center, for some 15 years attracting visitors from all over New England, as well as far distant states, and breathing into the apathy of country life a new and vivifying spirit. From 1898 to 1901 the school of methods afforded specific instruction to Maine teachers, under the tuition of the foremost educators of the day.

Who that has attended, ever so briefly, those annual assemblies, does not recall that benevolent, cheery, yet thoughtful face radiating wisdom and kindness and helpful energy from every line? Recall, too, with a twinge of pain, the glance of those clear blue eyes whose light will shine for us no more? Who ever has felt the grasp of that friendly hand, or been inspired by the doctor's resonant, soul reaching voice, will bow a reverent head and maybe feel a mist before his eyes in this spot once vitalized by that magnetic personality.

For some years since good Dr. Lindsay passed to the spiritual world, and with him passed the inspiring force of these assemblies that rapidly faded out into obscurity, leaving a mere shell to be parceled off at auction.

Known at various stages of decadence as "Fryeburg-on-the-Saco" and "Fryeburg" it bears again the poignant title of "Chautauqua Grounds," whose obsequies commemorate its passing into commercialism and oblivion.

One of the best signs of the times is the decided interest manifested by the men and boys from the farms in the exhibits of farm implements shown at our fairs. World's Famous Dyspepsia Prescription.

It Drives Away Stomach Distress in a Few Minutes, Stops Heartburn and Belching.

If you have anything the matter with your stomach you ought to know right now that M. O. N. A. stomach tablets are guaranteed by Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, to cure indigestion, or any sickness caused by indigestion, such as the following, for money back:

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sour stomach, fermentation of food, belching of gas, heavy feeling at pit of stomach, vomiting, or pregnancy.

If your meals don't digest but lie like a lump of lead in your stomach; if you have foul breath and loss of appetite, a few M. O. N. A. tablets will put your stomach in fine shape in short order.

If you or any of your family suffer from stomach trouble of any kind, get a 50 cent box of M. O. N. A. stomach tablets at once. Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, and druggists everywhere sell M. O. N. A. on money back plan.

"I was cured of dyspepsia that had assumed the nervous form, by the use of M. O. N. A. and I praise M. O. N. A. highly. My trouble got me weak and nervous so that I could not sleep; the bowels were constipated, and I had sharp, shooting pains through the kidney regions, and hard, dull backaches. M. O. N. A. is worth its weight in gold."—Walter Tebo, St. Clair, Mich. 37&39-

Cost of Flying.

The cost of aviation, in terms of human life, has been widely considered. Its cost in dollars and cents has received less attention, but it is considerable.

The initial cost of an airplane may be anywhere between $1,000 and $5,000. An unlucky accident may make the machine a total loss before it has been two minutes in the air. Even if it survives its earlier experience, every flight reduces its value and affects its stability.

A large force of auxiliary hands must be employed. The aeroplane is a queer bee that requires the attention of the whole hive. A swarm of mechanics and helpers must always be on hand. Fifteen or twenty are employed by the most conspicuous aeronauts, and their wages amount to a large sum. Add the charges for the transportation of the unwieldy apparatus, the airman's expenses for board and lodging and the by no means negligible cost of gasoline. The minimum charges in connection with a first-class meet can scarcely be brought below $500.

The professional flyer recoups himself by charging passengers for short flights, but the price falls as the novelty wanes. There is also the competition of wealthy amateurs who not only "blanket" the professional in the public eye but also carry their friends for nothing.

Clearly, the professional airman—particularly when the risk to life and limb is considered—earns his fee. And if, in the case of exceptionally skillful and noted professionals, the fee may go as high as $10,000, it is still well earned.

The Cooks who have used the Single Damper of the

will never go back to the troublesome two-damper range

The cost of the food spoiled by mistakes in regulating the ordinary two-damper ranges amounts to a large sum.

The Single Damper of the Crawford affords absolute fire and oven control by one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," the range does the rest.

The Oven of the Crawford has cup-joint heat flues which heat everywhere alike and make it the quickest and surest of bakers.

The "Two Hods" (patented) in the base—one for ashes instead of the old clumsy ash pan—one for coal, is a great trouble-saving feature.

Gas Ovens and Broilers above or at end of range, if desired.

Norway Municipal Court.

W. F. JONES, Judge.
There has been a lot doing the past week in the Norway Municipal Court. The fair brought with it a considerable amount of intoxication and gambling, but through the work of the officers there was no serious trouble.

On September 12, Philip Carter, who gave his residence as Lewiston, pleaded not guilty to the charge of soliciting orders for intoxicating liquors. He approached a boy on the fair grounds and solicited his order and was arrested shortly after. He pleaded not guilty but was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and costs, amounting to $33.70. He was committed in default. The arrest was made under the laws of 1909 and arraignments are infrequent. Commitment was for 60 days.

On the same day Arthur Turgeon appeared to answer to the charge of lack of evidence. He pleaded not guilty but was found guilty and fined $20 and costs, amounting to $32.34. He was given 60 days in jail in default and was committed.

Liquor seized by Deputy Sheriff Cole on the 11th were libeled and a hearing set for September 24, Saturday.

On September 13, James Lery who gave his residence as Auburn, but who had in his pocket a return ticket to Portland pleaded not guilty to being a pick-pocket. The evidence was too strong, however, and he was committed to jail in default of $300 bonds, fixed for his appearance at the October term of Supreme Court.

James O'Connell and Arthur Harris arrested with Lery were discharged for lack of evidence, the charge against them being attempted a felony.

Sheriff Bicknell seized a quantity of liquors on the 12th and a hearing has been set for Saturday, September 24.

Lewis E. Paine was arraigned Wednesday and pleaded not guilty to the illegal transportation of liquor. He was held on warrant for a further hearing in $50 bail. Frank N. Paine of Oxford and Frank M. Thurston of Webster furnished sureties. The case will be tried Friday.

Harry D. Cole seized 86 pints of whiskey in a trunk, warrant was issued and the hearing set for September 26.

Thursday Wm. A. Bicknell arrested John McNulty for intoxication. He pleaded guilty and licensed to pay a fine of $3 and costs taxed at $12. This was placed on file and the respondent promised to leave the county and stay out of town.

Sam Appleton was arrested on complaint of H. N. Pringle for conducting a gambling report. He pleaded not guilty but after hearing he was found guilty and fined $10 and costs. He appealed but afterwards paid and was discharged.

Simon Marcus and Solomon Myers were arrested on complaint of H. N. Pringle for gambling. They were found guilty and fined $5 and costs, amounting to $12.33. Paid and was discharged.

Wm. Harney arrested on complaint of H. N. Pringle for conducting a gambling report. He was found guilty and a payment of $12.33 and was discharged and promised to leave town.

Samuel Maloney arrested for gambling was found guilty and discharged on the payment of costs.

Several search warrants were issued Thursday for gambling implements on the fair grounds on complaint of H. N. Pringle.

He was the son of Ralph S. and Sarah (Crockett) Freeman and had lived on the home farm just over Crockett's bridge, overlooking Lake Penesseewassee. March 6 he was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia from which he never regained his former health, though at the time he went to Massachusetts he had improved a great deal, and Ralph thought he might fully recover. He terminated in complications from which he was a great sufferer.

Besides farming he did logging, winters. He had been selectman and road commissioner of Norway, was a member of Norway Grange, L. O. E. F., Robbists and N. E. O. P. In religion he was Universalist and in politics a Republican.

Mr. Freeman was one of a family of two sisters and two brothers, Mr. Harriet Crosby and Mrs. A. Alice Merrill of Cranston, N. H., and Henry W. Freeman of Boston.

Mr. Freeman has always been a man of steady habits, ambitious and a hard worker, a kind and indulgent husband and father.

The funeral was from Grange hall, Tuesday, Sept. 13, and was largely attended by the members of the Grange, of which he was a prominent member, and his life long neighbors and friends. The floral offerings were many and very beautiful. The services were by his former pastor, Rev. M. C. Ward.

After a long illness, a complication of diseases and paralysis, Walter C. Parade of Prize Winners.
The interesting event of Thursday's program was the parade of prize winners and the exhibition of Gentlemen's driving horses. The horses shown in the latter class owned by the following: W. Wheeler, Edwin Thayer driver, R. L. Cummings, James Fledge, Norway, Washington Head, North Buckfield, W. G. Sprague, Mechanic Falls and Ernest Sturtevant, West Paris, C. W. Cummings, Hebron took the blue ribbon with a pair of gentlemen's drivers; sired by Sanborn's French Coach "Lothaire." These bay horses are aged respectively 4 and 5 years.

Led by the brigade band the parade of prize winning stock was an important and interesting event. The line stretched nearly around the half mile track and the good proof that Oxford County is improving its stock every year.

First in the line was Marshall Fuller of Lewiston, followed by the special fair police force, consisting of the following officers: George Houghton, Ernest Hutchins, B. F. Boober, Lorin Hall and the special officers from Lewiston.

A carriage containing officials of the fair, Richardson, Wheeler, Frothingham, and McIntire.

On horseback was Marshall of the stock, Charles S. Panley, Norway. The parade was indeed an exhibition of carefully selected stock and included 23, 2-horse teams; 2, 4-horse teams; 2, 6-horse teams.

There were 55 cattle (pairs of oxen, steers, etc.) 5 ponies in the parade, 4 Gent's Drivers and 12 single horses led by their drivers.

Notable in the parade was the hand-drawn team shown from the stables of Dr. Ness, Lewiston, Me.

Among the ponies exhibited was the Welch-Shetland owned by Leoline Robinson, daughter of John Robinson, Oxford. This beautiful pony, weighing 650 pounds is her choice pet. The pony will walk up stairs, visit the children in their playhouse in a best behaved manner. In winter time Miss Robinson's hitches her pet into a travlers sled and all the school children that can possibly ride enjoy merry spin. It is no wonder that the pony is so well liked.

On the pony's back, Miss Robinson even places a log under the runner of her sled and with the pony clears the yard from snow. Around the track the pony appeared in a happy manner, as if pleased with the blue ribbon which it had received.

"Another year there should be an exhibit of automobiles at the fair." This is the opinion of a local horseman. "Although I am keenly interested in horses, yet I realize that autos have come into prominence and such a vehicle as that I think an interesting feature of the fair would be a parade of some of the beautiful cars owned by Oxford county people."

A Railroad Man.

J. R. Parrott, formerly of Oxford, now the famous railroad man of Florida who built the Florida East Coast railroad, was on the fair grounds, Tuesday.

Mr. Parrott spent his boyhood days in Oxford county but went to Florida after his graduation from Yale where he conceived the idea of a railroad to connect the Florida Keys with the railroad system of the South. He is today one of the richest men in South Florida and has done more for the South than any other man. He is the direct head of the Florida East Coast R. R., operating a system of 800 miles with 900 cars and 88 locomotives, and the Florida East Coast Hotel Co., with 11 hotels, 4,500 rooms, and a large fleet of boats.

In his desire to adopt a color different from that of any other railroad Mr. Parrott painted all his cars and hotels yellow. They are famous the world over for their summer homes painted the same color. Mr. Parrott's residence is at Jacksonville through the general offices of the railroad are at St. Augustine.

Due to the endeavors of this son of Oxford, the South is developing very rapidly and the country through which he has built the railroad, 13 years ago shipped only 10,000 crates of fruit annually. To-day the same section ships 2,500,000 crates of tomatoes alone, and 700,000 crates of pine apples in their season.

For boy-hood days Mr. Parrott once played base ball on these very fair grounds where he watched the game between the Maine Central and Pilgrims from the seat of his luxurious automobile.

Health vs. Wealth

We cannot all be wealthy; but we can all be healthy, which is far more important. The young man who protects his health with the true "F. F. F." medicine has a good chance of becoming rich as the old man with the prospect of getting much more enjoyment with his riches.

You must protect yourself with this wonderful remedy from the common ailments such as constipation, biliousness, colds and poor circulation and thus avoid the more serious diseases that are apt to follow.

"Several months ago I had considerable trouble from indigestion. I took one bottle of F. F. F. and my stomach was greatly benefited. I am nearly 57 years old." S. W. FOSBERG, Esq., 30 St. for a large bottle. Write for liberal sample to THE "F. F. F." MEDICINE CO., Portland, Me.

Historical Stories.
In a Desperate Condition.
In the history of Paris: "Aunt Katy Macomber," as she was familiarly called, the widow of Job Macomber, was engaged to be married to Joseph Cole, but to go to Hebron and keep house for Dea. William Barrows, who had lost his wife and wanted a housekeeper. She heeded Smith's advice and went to Hebron, and in process of time became the wife of Barrows.

Under the law of that day, the husband was liable for the debts of the wife contracted previous to marriage, unless she came to him in a destitute condition. In order to evade the conditions of the law and relieve her proposed husband from the responsibility of paying her debts, Aunt Katy, on the day of her marriage, repaired to the barn opposite the Deacon's house, and discharging herself, ran back across the road clothed only in her underwear.

A Bad Bargain.
The Bethel history says: "Tommy" lived at the lower part of the town and was a character in his way. He had no school privileges when young and so had no education. He bought two wild lots of land between Locke's Mills and the Androscooggin, before the Otter pond road was built, put him up a shanty, and while his mother (his father having died) did the housework, he attacked the forest and cleared his lands.

After a time he was married, and then he threw his old mother upon the town. He became a forehanded farmer, but it seemed almost like retributive justice, that adverse circumstances in later years should make him a town charge.

His wife died of consumption and he married a second. She also was a feeble woman, and he always claimed that he had been cheated. Speaking of the circumstances: "Why," he would say, "when I went to see her, her friends had collected all the yarn in the neighborhood and hung it up around her and made me think it was her own spinning; and now," continued he, "she hasn't seen a well day since I owned her, and it will take two or three hundred dollars to get her through."

Close Calculation.
In Woodstock History—Cases have sometimes occurred where persons who wished to have the nuptial knot tied have tried to beat down the parson's fees, but it is not very often that one who wants to get married tries the market as he would in selling his farm produce. But such a thing did occur in this town.

Mr. S. had bought and prepared the nest and snared his bird, and now wanted to have the legal formalities gone through with; so he went to a Justice of the Peace and asked the terms. He was answered that the legal fee was one dollar and twenty-five cents, but applicants for such service generally paid two dollars or more.

He said, "A dollar and a quarter is a darned sight too much for ten minutes' work, so he went to another and asked the same question, and was answered in essentially the same way. He asked if the fee could be paid in shingles, and was answered in the affirmative.

He considered a moment, scratched his unkempt head, and then suddenly exclaimed: "By gosh, I've got it, my cart wheels have got to be repaired, and I can get Elder Ricker to do it for a dollar a day, and he can marry us, so at nighttime, and it won't cost me a darned cent," and away he went to put his brilliant project into execution, whereupon he succeeded to his mind, or not cannot be stated.

A Parallel Case.
The Norway History—It is related that at a town-meeting when the contest was between the Democrats and Whigs, a man by the name of Dunn, weighing two hundred pounds or more, was prevented from voting on account of being helped by the town, and feeling as though he was deprived of his rights, he made the following remark:—"Mr. Moderator, my mother was the mother of seven sons, all robust and hearty men as I am, and more than that they were all Democrats. I don't think you can find such an instance in history," and down he sat.

Hoyt Pingree, who was present, and who was a Whig, was on his feet in a moment and said, "Mr. Moderator, I have read of a case similar to Brother Dunn's in a large book I have at home. It is the case of Mary Magdalene."

An "Old Rail" Line.
In the summer history we read: The only instance of anything like a mob or riot occurred more than half a century ago. A certain man of doubtful repute was generally supposed to be living an intimate and dissolute life with his sisters, and the people becoming disgusted with the affair decided to rid the town of his presence. As gentle hints did not avail they decided to procure an "old rail" line for him with a complimentary ticket for him to Buckfield.

As this occurred before the days of the steel rail, no other method seemed to be available but a wood fence rail. They went by night, and kindly made up the train at his door and invited the victim to a free ride, giving him the preference of the center seat on the carriage. They assisted their honored guest to the best seat, and the train started and did not stop at way stations until the conductor whispered "Buckfield."

This was the terminus of the line and the train stopped, the victim dismounted and the train men after taking water (?) started home.

The company only made one trip, as it proved effectual. Some of the leading citizens helped make up the party, and for neatness and dispatch it eclipsed the old F. O. J. Smith line and made better time.

A Comprehensive Oath of Office.
Benjamin Chadbourn was the Constable of the town of Harrison for the year 1819, and his oath of office was as follows:—"Whereas you, Benjamin Chadbourn, are chosen Constable within the Town of Harrison for one year, now following, and until another be chosen in your place, do swear that you will carefully intend the preservation of the peace, the discovery and preventing all attempts against the same, that you will duly execute all warrants which shall be sent unto you from lawful authority, and faithfully attend all such directions in the laws and orders of courts as are or shall be, committed to your care; that you will faithfully, and with what speed you can, collect and levy all such distresses, rates, assessments, and sums of money, for which you shall have sufficient according to law, render-

Since the Ingredients Entering Peruna Are Known, Its Power as a Catarrh Remedy and Tonic is Understood.
COLUMBUS, OHIO.—The active ingredients entering the most popular household remedy in the world have been made known to the public. This means a new era in the advertising of popular family medicines—Peruna leads.

Peruna contains among other things, golden seal, powerful in its effect upon the mucous membranes. Cedron seed, a rare medicine and unsurpassed tonic. log an account thereof; and paying the same according to the direction in your warrant; and with like faithfulness, speed and diligence, you will serve all writs, executions and distresses in private causes betwixt party and party, and make returns thereof duly in the same court where they are returnable; and in all things you shall deal faithfully whilst you shall be in office without any sinister respects of favor or displeasure. So help you God."

Wanted Plenty of Room.
The Waterford history tells this story of David McWain who lives alone on McWain hill.

McWain had a true pioneer's horror of being crowded. One morning as he stood on the huge rock behind his camp (south-east of the old McWain house), he spied smoke curling up through the forest in the direction of Paris, some twelve miles or more away. "Humph," said he, "I would like to know who is settling over there right under my nose!"

His farm was eight hundred acres in extent. He had one hundred and sixty acres of land improved in 1803; that year he kept forty head of cattle and fattened chiefly upon milk, thirteen hundred weight of pork. He died in 1825.

How to Attend Fairs.
If one is to get the most possible out of the time required to attend a fair he should go prepared for what is wanted. Thousands attend the great fairs for no other purpose than amusement, and that is the measure of what is obtained for the time spent. At the same time a fair opens the possibility of something more than merely passing away the time.

If a person has a purpose in attending a fair there will be little question but there will be ample opportunity to gratify it. The best of our domestic animals appear at the fairs. In fact the best of everything wanted in common affairs is found on exhibition at these fairs. They are ideal places to advertise and introduce to attention that which is desirable and valuable. Hence if a person is in want of a new and improved farm implement he will find a sample at the fair.

Thus it is that the fair becomes a place for showing and advertising all animals and all implements claimed to be of superior value among the people, and a person desiring information in those directions always finds a fair a desirable place to go to find the best of anything available. Attending a fair with such a purpose in view will give interest and value to the time thus spent.

The Apple.

Baked Apple Sauce—Pare, quarter and core large apples and pack in an earthen jar with brown sugar, cover closely and bake slowly in a moderate oven until the contents have been absorbed to about half the original bulk and are rich, red and luscious.

Apple Tapioca—Three-quarters of a cup of tapioca; seven sour apples; one-half teaspoonful salt; cold water; Beat half cup sugar; two and one half cups of boiling water.

Soak tapioca one hour in cold water to cover, add boiling water and salt; cook in double boiler until transparent, pare and slice apples, place in a buttered pudding dish, sprinkle sugar over apples, and pour over tapioca, and bake in moderate oven until apples are soft.

Apple Snow—Pare and core six good sized apples and steam them in two tablespoonfuls water with a little lemon peel until quite soft. Add one-fourth pound finely sifted sugar, let cool, and whip in whites of two fresh eggs. Beat well, without stopping to a stiff snow, and serve heaped up in custard glasses with a star of red currant jelly on top.

Apple Icing—White of one egg; three-quarter cup granulated sugar; one apple (grated). Beat all together for half an hour; flavor with almond.

Baked Apples—To bake in their skins, wash and wipe, and place in earthenware or granite ware baking dishes as tin or iron injures the flavor of the fruit. They should be baked until they form a rosy, pulpy mass, and if there is any danger of the juice burning on the baking dish, add a little water. Eaten with cream they form a delicious dessert.

Or they can be peeled and cored and covered with spiced sugar and a small slice of butter. Pour a little water in the baking pan, and a rich juice is formed, which can be used for basting them.

attraction. The Temple of Mystery is a show the characters of which is new for a fair ground attraction. It is positively away from the regular beaten paths of entertainments. The performance consists of a series of mysterious experiments that so far as history can be traced originated with the temple of Isis in the temple of Isis had been desecrated and fell in ruins, its works of mystery were taken up by the Hindoo Race and has been practiced by them for thousands of years, even up to the present day. The performance creates instantaneous and widespread attention whenever it appears because of the peculiar character of the mysterious work. (It will in all probability be one of the most extensively patronized attractions at the fair.)

The Cattle.

The cattle sheds are well filled with as nice looking stock as will be found at a cattle show. The cattle commenced to arrive early Monday and Tuesday morning found a good number on hand.

Also four calves, three heifers and a bull, each thoroughbred and registered.

This bull is a good sized fellow and attracts a good deal of attention. He is mostly white with a few black spots and is a good looking animal. He also has a 2-year-old heifer and a 9 months old bull calf.

H. M. Pierce of North Waterford is here this year and has his usual good looking stock with him. Mr. Pierce's stock is of the Durham brand. Friday afternoon the fair grounds began to open up and the tents were erected. About 11:15 there was a sudden squall and rain. Some of the tents which had not been securely fastened blew down.

Among the early Friday arrivals were the O. C.'s, or O'Conner's candy makers, who set up a striped red and white tent near the hall.

Near them the Working World and Joyland tents were set up.

As soon as the afternoon train, Dr. Bradbury was on the scene in his auto. Several of the "takers had got hurt more or less on the Grand Trunk, by two trains bumping together.

Harry Gray arrived with his soft drinks tent.

James G. York set up his ten pin game.

John W. Kerrigan has a large tent for fruit and soft drinks.

Among the interesting arrivals was an enormous pig, the biggest pig in the world. Weighs 1,200. This pig is in a tent belonging to H. C. Wilson. The pig was fed on International Stock Food and is a giant. Porcus originally came from Manitoba where he has a 13 months diet of corn and clover. A fat pig that weighs 1,700 pounds.

Work in the hall commenced early, and the different booths were being put in order, Saturday. The halls are more crowded this year than last and there is good demand for room. The Oxford County Fair will hold the attention of the people of Oxford County, and increases in interest each year. It is understood that there is need of considerable more room in the halls. This could easily be remedied by an addition put on to the building, extending it to the cemetery. This would enable the Granges to occupy one floor, and overcome the difficulty in lack of room.

One of the best signs of the times is the decided interest manifested by the men and boys from the farms in the exhibits of farm implements shown at our fairs. This means that there is a determination to lift more of the burden from the shoulders of the farmer and increase the possible output from each farm.

Don't be a hard-luck man. Don't let a hard-luck tale, say to a hard-luck visitor. "My spouse is not for sale." Don't be a hard-luck man. Get out of your grip, and let things may be wrong and hard to bear. But whines won't make 'em right!

The Story of the Halls.

Work in the hall was started in good shape, Friday. The four Grange exhibits getting under way.

Among the exhibits of the fair none are more interesting than the patch work quilts. Mrs. Elmina Bicknell, 71 years old, and brand rugs made by her sister, Sarah Packard, who is 75 years of age. Mrs. Bicknell has made nearly 30 quilts during her eventful life, of every pattern from the log cabin to the "star quilts," "stars," etc. One of her quilts had 1,150 different pieces in it.

Mrs. Packard has done other things than make patch work during her life, for she has been a nurse over 50 years and has taken care of 142 babies besides the six of her own family. Mrs. Packard is, familiarly known as "Aunt Sarah Asa." Two admirers in the same neighborhood married women whose Christian names were Sarah, and in order to distinguish the two women they have been commonly known as "Sarah Lewis Packard" and "Sarah Asa Packard." The first names of their husbands in each case being used as the middle name of the ladies. Mrs. Packard, too, has made 30 patch work quilts besides knitting five silk rugs, ten woven ornamental rugs.

She also knits many pairs of double mittens. She can thread a needle without using glasses and though she wears them more or less, often sews all day without glasses.

"Take your next lens, move down over." Thousands of times has Darius Negrus of Providence, R. I., called out this familiar instruction to the people of Maine during the course of his exhibition of war pictures. He is a picturesque figure at the fair where he has exhibited for many years coming here from Lewiston where he has a record of 19 years. He carries an empty blue sleeve, result of the battle of Antietam. He served with the "boys in blue" in many a hard fought battle and has many comrades in this vicinity. Mr. Stephen Robinson, 33, in the brigade with him. "I was tough," says Negrus, "that battle of Antietam. Many the man was there who threw away all his equipment, saving only their musket and canteen, and at times it was a pool of blood of water that we had in it. We were in the battle almost before we knew it. I saw my comrades cut down before the awful fire of the enemy. I can't describe the scenes through which we passed save that they were of sadness and sorrow and while the fight lasted it was a weary, weary war."

"Look at the pictures, they tell you better than I can in words." The veteran is sincere. It is a remarkable collection of genuine pictures of the Civil War. He is a respected citizen of his home city and has many friends in Maine.

E. P. Crockett has a beautiful exhibit of cut flowers, including the asters, for which Mr. Crockett's hothouse is noted. The lower end of the left hand side is a bank of flowers, zinnias, asters, sweet stocks of the most beautiful variety artistically.

Just below this flower exhibit is that of Mrs. J. P. Richardson. This exhibit is entirely of potted plants of many varieties and makes a very attractive exhibit.

The Craig Novelty Co., occupy a position facing the door in the lower hall. They are engravers and manufacturers of gold wire jewelry and also carrying burnt leather goods.

H. H. Moser of Norway, has an exhibit of about 12 different makes of his snowshoes.

Madame Carl, palmist, clairvoyant and astrologer, gives readings of the hand in the hall near the door. Madame has been in the fair for about 15 years.

A. A. Butler and Harry J. Geer of Providence, R. I., have a wire work and jewelry stand, where they are doing a thriving business.

The Palmograph is run by Charles Winibau, Boston, Mass. This is a new thing in the State of Maine. It will write the palm in two seconds.

The vesper service at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon given by the children of the Sabbath school, assisted by the choir, was a most pleasing service. The children were trained by Miriam Herrick and did their parts very well. Beside the double ladies' quartette, Dr. and Mrs. Wight sang a duet most acceptably. The superintendent, Mrs. W. C. Curtis, gave a short and interesting address. The whole service was helpful and inspiring. Elsie Hall and Ida Dean played the organ.

Saturday evening a goodly number attended the entertainment given by Mrs. J. G. Gehring at the Lounge for the benefit of the Ladies' Club. Mrs. Gehring read a paper upon the Chateaux in France which she visited during her recent trip there. As the beautiful pictures were thrown upon the canvas and Mrs. Gehring described the people and places foreign lands seeing the originals. The historical settings were made very real and we were loath to close our evening of travel. Many thanks are due Dr. and Mrs. Gehring for the hospitality of their beautiful home, and giving us "stay at homes" such a delightful hour of foreign travel. A goodly sum was added to the treasury.

Farming Implements.

The farming implements are displayed this year in a tent 50x40 feet near the entrance of the fair grounds instead of under the grandstand. Son of South Paris is displaying the largest line of F. H. C. farming implements than ever before.

Among the largest machines that attract attention on entering the tent are automobiles. One is the farmer's auto, an auto with two seats with room for the whole family.

The second is a one-seater with space to carry 1500 pounds freight and the 3d is a roundabout. The first two are air cooled, the roundabout water cooled.

Among the larger implements are the Gale Baldwin improved No. 16 snailage and fodder cutter, and the King Corn, manure spreader. Another good sized machine is the gasoline engine saw cutting outfit on wheels, which enables one to back up to a wood pile and commence sawing. The engine is detachable and can be hauled to other uses when desired. There are also displayed a pumping engine, jack pumps, engine and pumps with direct connection of pump and engine.

One other article that is much used is the Tom Thumb spraying outfit. This is a very compact machine and will do the spraying at 80 pounds pressure.

There are also a large number of smaller implements including disk harrows, with or without the tongue truck; corn planters, the ellipse, and the king of the corn field, also sulky plows, the Oliva and the Wizard; a winnowing machine and hand cutter. These implements have all the latest improvements attached to facilitate the work of the farmer.

Mottled Butter.

The farmer's wife sometimes wonders what causes the uneven streaks, or mottles in butter. Usually the blame is laid to improper salting, but tests show that salt can not produce this result unless the butter contains an uneven distribution of buttermilk.

If the butter is free from buttermilk, no matter how unevenly the salt is mixed, the streaks or mottles will not be produced. But if there is a great deal of buttermilk left in the butter, the union of salt and buttermilk causes the mottles.

When churning is done so as to make the butter granules the size of rice grains and these are carefully washed twice with water at a temperature below 45 degrees F., removing most of the buttermilk adhering to the outer surface of the granules no mottles are obtained.

The amount of proteid in mottled butter is greater in the light portions than in the darker portions, and is the cause of the light color of mottles. Salt brine does not change in any way the color of butter fat. Salt brine, as it commonly occurs in butter, has the power of hardening and localizing the proteid particles, the action requiring several hours for completion.

In the mottled butter the light portions usually contain less salt than the darker portions.

It can be concluded then that mottles in butter are due primarily to the presence and uneven distribution of buttermilk adhering to the outer surface of the small granules, and to the hardening and localizing effect of the salt brine upon the proteid of the buttermilk thus retained in the butter.

The light portions of mottled butter owe their light color to the presence of localized proteid.

The yellow or clear portions occur where the spaces between the butter granules are filled with clean brine and are comparatively free from casine compounds.

Several hours are required to complete the action of the brine upon the proteid of the butter.

Mottles in butter can be prevented by avoiding those conditions that retain buttermilk in the butter and observing those conditions which favor the removal of butter milk from butter granules before salting. The butter granules, as said above, should be about the size of rice grains, and should be washed twice with water at a temperature of 35 to 45 degrees F.

A desirable place on Hillside Avenue, South Paris, is for sale. See ad. Price reasonable and easy terms.

Bible Training.

Parents can't commit their children to the Lord and rest there for their children's character, any more than they can pray for their bread and stop.

And training in reading a school can give a child. The school is not continuous enough for training—not even the day school, far less the Sunday school. Only the home can train—the home which is around the child, one day and another, in normal circumstances for 15 or 20 continuous years.

The adage "A little learning is a dangerous thing" may perhaps not be fairly applied to Bible learning. But if not a peril, a little learning in the Bible is often for the child a totally ineffective year of misadventure and a grotesque misunderstanding of the whole of what Scripture actually says, may be the net result of years of hop-skip-and-jump teaching; and utter disinterest or even positive repugnance—revolt of an ignorant soul—may close the adult mind against larger impressions later.

But if the child life is saturated with the Bible—saturated from the atmosphere of a home always filled full of Bible thinking and harmonious Bible practice—the divine saving power of the word will vindicate itself by shaping the young mind to take the life that withstand the wear of time and temptation.

The Bible can be dependent on to do that thing because it is the book God made for that purpose. If taken piecemeal, it develops a petty, wrangling, question-begging, and criticism; but if applied whole—made the meat and drink of a young life until the very marrow of it has gone into the marrow of the growing soul—it will produce a great strong, faithful life, which cannot be shaken in the universe to forget that it lives in the burning sight of God and must give account.

The secret of character that can't be adulterated by evil is saturation with the Bible.

The secret of such saturation with the Bible is a home crammed with Bible every day from the child's birth.

The most serious responsibility of the Christian father and mother is to create that saturating Bible atmosphere in the home.

Colors for Rooms.

If your rooms are to be redecorated this summer there are many things that should be taken into consideration which are too often neglected.

If you can afford to turn the refurbishing over to a professional decorator such matters as light, exposure and color schemes will be treated from an artistic standpoint.

If the rooms open out of one another they should not have different color schemes or the effect will be poor. If you do not like decorating an entire floor in different tones of one color as is now popular, have only two colors in harmonious tones.

For upper rooms the present fashion of having the papers of each room in the same neutral tone with colored borders is good. Soft gray, pale or one or two-toned striped white or cream papers are preferred for the foundation.

In a small house it is a great advantage to have the color scheme in one key, as it adds to the apparent size of rooms.

If a room is rather low and dark, a good way to get a lighter effect is to carry the paper up to within two feet of the top and have border and ceiling of white. This canopy top is not particularly fashionable, but it makes a difference in the lightness of a room.

If height is a consideration rather than light, run the paper to the ceiling and finish with a narrow picture railing. Striped paper increases the apparent height of a room, but if the proportions are small the stripes should not be broad and preferably one-toned in glazed and unglazed effects.

Windows of a room and the number of windows should also be regarded in furnishing. The rooms facing south should have a cool, neutral tint, while those toward the north should be given the appearance of sunlight, with warm, cheerful papers that do not absorb light, says the New Haven Union.

Tan is a good paper for a hall, except when it is very dark, when yellow should be chosen. Blue should be used sparingly as it has too cold an appearance for most halls.

Tan is an assertive color, but is dignified and needs high illumination. In hall or library it is apt to absorb artificial light and is never restful.

Green is always restful, but care should be taken that it is a tone that reflects light. The blue greens are always dark, though, though more stylish than those with a tinge of yellow or gray.

Where a house is to be colonial in its furnishings, nothing equals white paint. It goes well with most papers, but needs care and frequent repainting, an objection when the paint is needed.

A plain paper of neutral tint forms the best background for pictures, a warm medium gray and a light cream being either in plain surfaces or in high-toned stripes.

The Horses.

Racing promises to be a history maker. The track is in excellent condition and as fine a string of horses as entered for the various races has been seen for years. Interest as usual centers on the free-for-all. Many speedy horses are here for the first time, together with some of the "stars" that have trotted in previous years.

Among the horses are—Ethel S., Anti Friction, and Leanna, a string of promising ones owned by P. L. Smith, Fryebury. This is the first fair of the season for these horses. Leanna is perhaps the most interesting of all, with a record of 2:15½. She is a black mare, 3 years old and came East only 3 months ago from Indiana where she was a favorite of the track. She is by Princeton, a famous Western horse. After her trial at Norway, she will be taken to Gorham and then to the Fryebury fair.

One of the cleanest looking strings here is the five from the Mayberry Stock Farm at Casco. This farm is owned by C. G. Mayberry of Boston, and Ed. Fisher is in charge of the following exhibit of horses: Dr. Billings, a bay gelding; Montbert, also a bay, 3 years old; and another season Mr. Mayberry plans to have a dozen fine ones here from the young stock he is trying out on his farm.

Dr. Billings took second money in the 3 year-old class at Lewiston last year, and last week was 3d at the State Fair. Montbert won the 3 year-old State race at Lewiston, three straight heats, in the following time: 2:24½; 2:23½; 2:30½. Nancy Bingers, by Bingers, a bay gelding, took second money in the 3 year-old class at Lewiston last year, and last week was 3d at the State Fair. Montbert won the 3 year-old State race at Lewiston, three straight heats, in the following time: 2:24½; 2:23½; 2:30½.

The horse that takes the eye of all who have seen him is Dandy Joe, scheduled for the 2:25 class. He is owned by S. Fuller of Oxford, and is correctly named. He is, indeed, a dandy, with a line of breeding as long as a man's arm; by Francisco, bam by Essex, by Hambletonian, etc. Dandy Joe is eight years old and weighs 1,100. Mr. Fuller has owned him since he was two years old. For 1909 he started him for the first time at Waterville, then at Bangor, Lewiston, Norway, etc. He received a mark of 2:24½, and out of the eight starts during the season won the money every time and won three firsts.

R. D. Waite of Lewiston, formerly known as Bob, is here with Top, Patch, a gelding horse, Benone, Joe Hilton, Clarion a by mare, and Knox B a chestnut gelding, for the free-for-all.

F. B. Fogg of Paris is here with his famous Johnnie Direct, a 3-year-old by John Direct and a horse known as Bryant, which has no record but will start in the 2:50 class. He is by Allen, son of Nelson.

George Clark of Lewiston is here with Stingy Dick, a 6-year-old green horse, a black gelding. He worked this horse at Lewiston last week, showing him in an exhibition mile. This promising horse is by Scarlet Wilkes.

F. B. Rideout of Boston is on hand with five horses: Louise G. by Acoloyne, Catherine E., a 7-year-old bay mare with a record of 2:22½, Easter Hal, 7-year-old brown horse with 2:27 to its credit. Mr. Rideout drives his own horses and comes to Norway from Lancaster, N. H., where he took 1st money with Louise G. and Catherine E. and 2d money with Harry Wilkes. The latter horse is a bay by Red Elm with a record of 2:24½.

Mr. Rideout also has Directo, by Direct, a green trotter that has been worked out at Medford and starts in the 2:50 trot Wednesday.

The horses commenced to arrive last of the week and each day new strings were added to the list of arrivals. H. F. Andrews and F. P. Richardson both of Norway were in general charge of the horses.

Among the horses in the stalls are found American Blossom, Attorney at Law, Dandy Joe and Alotta from Mountain View farm and will be driven by W. A. Nelson, Lella Wilkes and Achillea which belong to F. O. Walker, of Rumford were among the first to come.

The brown stallion, Alaslone, the brown 3-year-old Stallion Benone; and the chestnut mare, Annie Sidney, came from Cornish and are the property of N. J. Ross.

The limit, the bay stallion of J. S. Robinson of South Windham is on the grounds.

Dimple K., a chestnut mare, Balke, Thomas J., Beatrice and Barron Jay, are here. They belong to G. W. Gerow of Fort Fairfield.

R. L. Cummings and Son are camping on the grounds and have a string of four horses, 1 yearling, which is not named, Chas Bob, a three year old, Nellie a four year old, and Grace a five year old. They were all raised by Mr. Cummings.

Horace Chenery of Belfast has a string from the "Parsons." These are in charge of M. A. Nevins. John Ward 3½ by Binger 20½, the first record stallion ever bred in Maine; Juanalita a three year old, by John Warden, Mendallita, record 7½. Edgemarks Gift 2:16 and 4 years old, record of 2:42 in the four old class. Junior Ward, a three year old by John Ward made a trial mile in 2:23 in the 3 year old class.

Elsie Snow by Sivad, dan Eagle bird. She is a bay mare 5 years old by Direct, Dan Mendallita.
